

LEXIE

Background information:

Lexie is up to date with all her inoculations.

Lexie is yet to have her season.

Lexie is a great companion who is a very loving, friendly and sociable.

She is house trained.

She is excellent around children.

Lexie is very obedient and always wants to please.

Lexie gets very excited for her daily walks, she especially likes it when she's off the lead so she can explore. She never goes to far and always comes back to her name or a whistle.

Lexie doesn't like her front paws cleaning and will become quite defensive over them (a little growl that's all, However, she will let you put them in a bowl of water. She has absolutely no problems at all with you cleaning her back paws.

Lexie can become a little feisty around other dogs.

This has been a very difficult decision to return Lexie but one that has to be made as my youngest son Asthma has become a very serious concern. The Asthma clinic strongly recommended that Lexie would have to go or my son will end up in hospital. Even in light of this we still gave two weeks to see if Lexie's malting would subside, unfortunately it hasn't. We have also visited our vets to see if there are any remedy's, but once again the recommendation was that Lexie would need to be return to the Rescue Centre as soon as possible for the benefit of my son and Lexie, as the longer we leave it the harder it will become for Lexie to re-settle with another family and we don't want that to happen.

She is a wonderful dog and one that will be sorely missed for so many reasons.
